

SUPPORTING UK FIRMS TO EXPORT IN CHALLENGING ENVIRONMENTS

The UK is at a critical juncture, adjusting to the departure from the European Union and looking to give substance to a Global Britain while coping with COVID 19 which has disrupted lives and caused an unprecedented contraction in the economy. Much of the recovery will be reliant on a dynamic export sector. Firms which are prepared to operate in new, fragile and complex environments will need support or risk having those markets denied to them. It is businesses supporting businesses that will be the key to success.

The UK Defence and Security Exports (UKDSE) within the Department for International Trade is in the vanguard of driving the Global Britain Prosperity Agenda by its commitment to help UK companies achieve export success even in complex environments.

The Security in Complex Environments Group (SCEG) is working to support these aims. It represents the UK's most and capable and well-regulated risk and security management companies who are uniquely placed to enable market entry and support a range of business activity for UK exporters.

A RESOURCE FOR EXPORTERS

SCEG is a not for profit organisation committed to the raising of standards for the sector. It is an authoritative focal point for advice on the security and risk management sector. Critically it provides independent and impartial advice and has a longstanding relationship with DIT and Other Government Departments.

A PARTNERSHIP WITH GOVERNMENT

SCEG is a Special Interest Group within ADS which supports over 1100 UK businesses operating in the aerospace, defence, security and space sectors. For the past decade, SCEG in partnership with the UK government has acted as a catalyst for the development of international standards in the private risk and security sector. SCEG companies are well regulated and compliant: embracing international security standards and protecting human rights is at the core of their business models. SCEG companies encompass the full gamut of the industry from global multinationals to SMEs with world class specialist capabilities. SCEG Companies are operating today in over one hundred countries and jurisdictions.

CAPABILITIES AND REACH OF SCEG COMPANIES

SCEG Companies are internationally recognised security and risk management companies. They have a range of multi-faceted capabilities designed to enable you to operate with confidence, safety and security in complex environments. These include:

'End to End' integrated services that will identify risk exposure and provide innovative risk mitigation solutions.

Project Security Risk Assessments supporting complex construction, geotechnical and geophysical projects.

Facilitation and advisory services enabling turnkey integrated solutions - from airport to project completion.

Facilities management and remote site support services in fragile environments.

Maritime security solutions for high risk areas with world class solutions for the demanding and dynamic threat environments of inshore and offshore operations.

Comprehensive Travel Risk Management and Security Services to enable your company to operate with confidence in demanding jurisdictions.

Crisis Management and Emergency Response including training, guidance and comprehensive response to prepare for and then respond to crises.

Cyber security services including protection, training, guidance and threat analysis and reporting.

Kidnap and ransom products and services including training, insurance and responders.

Combined security and medical assistance to enable early identification and mitigation of health risks.

Close protection services - tailored protective solutions - including for high net worth individuals in your company.

Training for operating in hostile environments tailored for individuals and organisations.

Intelligence reports, bespoke research, due diligence, background checks, threat assessments and risk profiles.

Bespoke insurance products underwritten at Lloyd's for operations in hostile environments.

Accredited Certification Bodies providing rigorous auditing and certification of companies.

Specialist legal advice for complex environments, multiple jurisdictions, liabilities, controlled goods and licensing issues.

OFFER

SCEG as the repository of standards combined with a comprehensive understanding of the security and risk management industry is uniquely placed to act as a conduit for UK business and exporters seeking support and access to ensure their successful market-entry into overseas complex environments and markets. SCEG is here to facilitate impartial commercially sensitive market entry solutions for UK business for the client to consider at no cost.

A Special Interest Group of

CONTACT

Following an introduction by DSE, firms will be invited to discuss their requirements, in complete confidence, with the Director of SCEG.

Paul Gibson DSO MBE | paul.gibson@adsgroup.org.uk

sceg.org.uk