

Richard Wilson – CEO Physical Risk Solutions & Belstone Dart International

Richard completed a successful and accomplished career in the Royal Navy as a Marine Engineer on both surface vessels and nuclear submarines.

Since leaving he has built up a successful managerial career by serving in a number of executive positions including CEO of ACCL International which supported military and diplomatic entities throughout Afghanistan.

Richard is also a founding partner of Dubai based Critical Operations Group, a multifaceted company, which incorporates Eagle Logistics, Physical Risk Solutions (PRS) and the recently acquired Belstone Dart International (BDI), that integrates critical services and logistics throughout the Middle East and Africa.

Currently serving as CEO of PRS and BDI Richard is an active member of a number of forums and believes navigating the challenges of responsible operation is best undertaken as a group of likeminded companies working in unison to effect change.

He has a BA (First Hons) in Business Management, with the emphasis being placed on business in remote, austere and hostile environments.

Richard lives in Devon but spends a large amount of time in the UAE and Africa.
